The application of AI tools contributed to a reduction of required UX/UI resources by more than 80 percent, shortened the time from concept to solution implementation by 30 percent, and enabled development projects to be completed up to five times faster compared with projects without the use of artificial intelligence. As a major milestone, an AI-powered voice sales bot was launched, with plans to extend its use to additional business processes. At the same time, a digitalization initiative for Croatia Polyclinic was launched, supported by the active use of AI tools.

Croatia poliklinika recorded 25 percent revenue growth compared with the same period of the previous year. The implementation of a series of strategic initiatives aimed at the digital transformation of operations continues, with the goals of improving customer experience, increasing operational efficiency, and creating the foundations for the deployment of new digital solutions. Croatia poliklinika is the third-largest healthcare provider in the Croatian private healthcare market and the only leading private healthcare provider without significant revenue from the Croatian Health Insurance Fund (HZZO).

In May, the third anniversary of Croatia's Spektar benefits programme was celebrated. By the end of June 2026, more than 326,000 households had joined the programme, representing a 28 percent increase compared with the same period last year. As a reward for their loyalty, five Spektar customers with accompanying persons, selected among 60,000 participants in the May prize draw, won a trip to the FIFA World Cup and a match in Toronto. The number of households that used at least one Spektar benefit during the first six months of 2026 exceeded 88,000, an increase of 42 percent compared with the same period last year.

In May, LAQO was the general sponsor of the Croatian Insurance Days, the insurance industry's annual gathering, where the Company's experts further reinforced its leadership position in the domestic insurance market through a series of high-profile presentations.

At the Days of Communication festival, Croatia poliklinika won 13 awards for its campaign "When I Care, I Know Where to Go" and the activation "Straighten Up".

Croatia osiguranje further strengthened its financial literacy programme through the launch of a new online platform, "The More You Know, the Less You Worry", designed to make insurance, risk management, and financial decision-making topics more accessible to the general public.

On 20 January 2026, the General Assembly of CROATIA osiguranje d.d. was held, at which a Decision was made to elect Roberto Škopac and Hrvoje Patajac as members of the Supervisory Board for a period of four years, starting from 25 April 2026. At its session held on 16 February 2026, the HANFA Management Board adopted a decision granting approval to Roberto Škopac and Hrvoje Patajac to serve as members of the Supervisory Board of CROATIA osiguranje d.d. for a term of office from 25 April 2026 to 25 April 2030.

The Management and the Supervisory Board proposed to the General Assembly dividend payment to holders of ordinary and preference shares from the net profit achieved in 2025, in the total amount of EUR 49,045,615.58, or EUR 114.14 per share and the General Assembly adopted the corresponding resolution on 9 June 2026. Croatia osiguranje d.d. has been operating successfully in the past years, with a growing level of profit and high capital adequacy rates, both at the Company level and at the Group level, and it is expected that during the year 2026 the capital adequacy should be maintained above the level of 200%.

Geopolitical and macroeconomic situation, conflicts and challenges

The second quarter of 2026 was marked by a partial easing of geopolitical tensions in the Middle East and a recovery in financial markets following a volatile start to the year. In June, the conflict between the United States and Iran partially de-escalated and the Strait of Hormuz was reopened, helping to alleviate concerns over potential disruptions to energy supplies. After reaching exceptionally high levels during the first quarter and early second quarter, oil prices declined significantly as tensions eased. The price of Brent crude oil fell by 38% during the second quarter, from USD 118 per barrel at the end of the first quarter to USD 73 per barrel at the end of June. The easing of geopolitical tensions and lower energy prices contributed to a reduction in the risk of further inflationary pressures and helped stabilize inflation expectations, which had earlier in the year been among the key risks facing the global economy and financial markets. During the second quarter, the Federal Reserve (Fed) kept its key interest rates unchanged, while the European Central Bank (ECB) increased its key interest rates by 25 basis points in June. Expectations regarding inflation, energy prices, and future central bank actions continued to be important drivers of market interest rates and bond yields. Nevertheless, towards the end of the quarter, market interest rates showed signs of stabilization, while investor expectations gradually shifted towards a more favourable macroeconomic scenario.

According to the latest available data from the Croatian Bureau of Statistics (CBS), the Croatian economy recorded real GDP growth of 2.2% in the first quarter of 2026 compared with the same quarter of the previous year (compared with 3.9% GDP growth at the end of 2025), indicating a moderation in economic growth. According to Eurostat, annual inflation measured by the Harmonised Index of Consumer Prices (HICP) stood at 4.2% in June 2026 (4.5% according to the CBS), representing a decline compared with the previous quarter, although the euro area average increased from 2.6% to

2.8% during the second quarter. While low unemployment and wage growth continued to support household consumption, lower energy prices and easing external inflationary pressures contributed to a gradual slowdown in inflation in Croatia during the second quarter.

Global financial markets were characterized by more positive sentiment during the second quarter than in the first quarter of the year. The easing of geopolitical tensions, the resilience of economic activity, and strong growth in the technology sector driven by investments in artificial intelligence positively influenced investor confidence. This positive sentiment was reflected in equity markets, with the S&P 500 Index delivering its strongest quarterly performance since 2020, rising by 14.9%. Similar trends were recorded in European equity markets, where the Euro Stoxx 50 Index posted a strong gain of 13.6%. Conversely, gold lost its status as one of the best-performing investments of the previous period, declining by 14.1% during the second quarter and erasing all gains achieved in the first quarter. Towards the end of the period, the price of gold briefly fell below USD 4,000 per ounce, its lowest level since November 2025. Although geopolitical risks and uncertainty regarding future monetary policy remained present, volatility in financial markets during the second quarter was considerably lower than in the preceding period, reflecting a return of investor confidence and a stabilization of market expectations.

The improvement in the investment climate during the second quarter also had a positive impact on regional equity markets. Following a modest decline of 2.0% in the first quarter, the Croatian equity index CROBEX recorded a strong increase of 17.9% in the second quarter, while the Slovenian equity index SBITOP continued its positive momentum and gained 9.5%. After rising yields and declining prices at the beginning of the quarter, driven by higher energy prices and elevated inflation expectations, bond markets gradually stabilized during the second quarter, with volatility significantly lower than in the previous quarter.

Shortly after the end of the second quarter, in July 2026, geopolitical risks increased significantly once again due to a renewed escalation of the conflict in the Middle East and a series of incidents affecting the security of maritime traffic through the Strait of Hormuz. These developments resulted in a renewed increase in energy prices, adding uncertainty to the economic and market outlook for the remainder of the year. Nevertheless, given the Company's resilience to various stress scenarios, supported by its strong capitalization position (SCR ratio of 282% as at 31 March 2026), and based on currently available information and the results of sensitivity analyses performed, the Company expects to maintain an adequate level of capitalization and compliance with regulatory requirements even in an environment of heightened market and geopolitical uncertainty.

Expected development in the future

In July, tensions between Iran and the United States escalated once again, with instability also spreading to Yemen, a strategically important area due to its access to the Red Sea. Iran formally withdrew from the peace agreement, and it remains uncertain when the parties may return to negotiations and reach a new settlement. These developments contributed to a renewed increase in oil prices, which are once again approaching USD 100 per barrel. An additional source of risk is the lower level of natural gas storage inventories in the European Union compared with the same period of the previous year, increasing uncertainty ahead of the upcoming heating season. Alongside energy prices, extreme weather conditions are expected to have a negative impact on agricultural yields, which could in turn lead to higher global food prices. As a result, the risks of a resurgence in inflation have increased, although current developments are not yet reflected in official economic forecasts. For the Republic of Croatia, annual inflation, measured by the Harmonised Index of Consumer Prices (HICP), is still expected to reach 4.6%, while real GDP growth is projected at 2.6%.

Higher inflation rates continue to intensify pressures on labour costs, while signs of stagnation in employment growth are already becoming visible in the labour market. Following nominal wage growth of 10.8% in 2025, wage growth is expected to slow to approximately 7% in 2026.

The tourism sector recorded a 7% decline in overnight stays in June, while cumulative results since the beginning of the year remain broadly in line with those recorded in the previous year. The performance of the peak tourist season will depend on several factors, including developments in fuel prices, economic conditions in Croatia’s key European source markets, and the relative price competitiveness of Croatia’s overall tourism offering compared with competing destinations. Currently available data for July suggest, at best, a period of stagnation, making it difficult to reliably assess the final outcome of the tourist season at this stage. On the one hand, instability in the Middle East may enhance Croatia’s attractiveness as a relatively nearby destination accessible by car. On the other hand, a more pronounced deterioration in global geopolitical and economic conditions, potentially leading to a global economic recession, could weaken demand for tourism services.

In the first half of 2026, the insurance market recorded growth of approximately 7%, with non-life insurance expanding somewhat faster than life insurance. The principal driver of market growth was health insurance, supported by both an increase in the number of policyholders and implemented pricing adjustments. Market growth is expected to moderate by the end of the year, a trend already evident in certain insurance classes. As inflationary pressures persist, a key long-term question remains the extent to which insurers will pass increased costs on to customers through higher premiums, versus offsetting them through internal cost savings and enhanced operational efficiency. No significant structural changes are expected in the life insurance segment. Moderate growth in life insurance segment is anticipated in 2026, supported by continued GDP expansion and rising nominal wages. Growth is expected to be driven primarily by new investment-linked products, alongside a gradual shift away from traditional life insurance products.

Research and development activities

The Company continuously monitors environmental events and invests in market research, directs and supports the activities of affiliated companies that are in the function of organic growth and recognition of business opportunities and realization of new acquisitions. Given the increase in global uncertainty and risk, the Company will consider potential new business opportunities much more strictly.

Description of the most significant risks and uncertainties

Presentation currency

Company's financial statements are prepared in the euros as the functional and presentation currency.

Use of estimates and judgements

Preparation of financial statements in conformity with IFRS requires the Management Board to make judgements, estimates and assumptions that affect the application of accounting policies and reported amounts of assets, liabilities, income and expenses. The estimates and associated assumptions are based on historical experience and various other factors that are believed to be reasonable under the circumstances, and information available at the date of preparation of financial statements, the results of which form the basis of making the judgements about carrying value of assets and liabilities that are not readily apparent from other sources. Actual results may differ from these estimates. The estimates and underlying assumptions are reviewed on an ongoing basis. Changes of accounting estimates are recognised from the period in which an estimate is revised and in future periods, if the change also affects them.

Accounting policies

Accounting policies and measurement methods which are used in the preparation of financial statements for the reporting period are the same as those which are used for preparation of the audited financial statements for the year 2025.

Related party transactions

In the current reporting period, there were usual related party transactions of goods and services.

Seasonality of business activities

Company's operations are not seasonal.

Segment reporting

The Company's reporting segments comprise the life insurance segment and the non-life insurance segment. The description of segments as well as allocation of costs between segment of life insurance and non-life insurance, capital and reserves and assets described in the annual financial statements for 2025, have not changed. There were no significant intersegmental revenues and expenses in the period observed.

Fair value

Fair value is the amount that should be received for an asset sold or paid to settle a liability in an arm's length transaction between market participants at the value measurement date. Fair value is based on quoted market prices, where available. If market prices are not available, fair value is estimated by using discounted cash flow models or other appropriate pricing techniques. Changes in assumptions on which the estimates are based, including discount rates and estimated future cash flows, significantly affect the estimates. Therefore, at this point the estimated fair value cannot be certainly achieved from the sale of a financial instrument.

The fair value of investments at amortised cost is presented below:

	30 June 2026			31 December 2025

Methods of assessment or assumptions in determining fair value

For measuring the fair value, the Company takes into account the IFRS fair value hierarchy rules that reflect the significance of inputs used in the assessment process. Each instrument is assessed individually and in detail. The levels of the fair value hierarchy are determined on the basis of the lowest level and the input data that are important for determining the fair value of the instrument.

The table below analyses financial instruments carried at fair value using the valuation method. Different levels have been defined as follows:

- Quoted prices (unadjusted) in active markets for identical assets or liabilities (Level 1),
- Inputs other than quoted prices included within Level 1 that are observable for the asset or liability, either directly (that is, as prices or interest rates information) or indirectly (that is, derived from prices or interest rates) (Level 2),
- Inputs for the asset or liability that are not based on observable market data (unobservable inputs) (Level 3).

The Company's assets measured at fair value as at 30 June 2026 are presented as follows:

The Company has adopted IFRS 13, pursuant to which it is required to disclose the fair value hierarchy of financial assets that are not measured at fair value as well as a description of valuation techniques and inputs used.

Financial liabilities, which are not valued at fair value through profit and loss account, are recorded at amortised cost. The Management Board believes that, due to fact that interest rate of these instruments is in line with market rates, the carrying value of these instruments is not significantly different from their fair value.

The fair value of deposits, loans and financial liabilities are estimated on the basis of inputs that are not commercially available rates, and are therefore classified as Level 3, or by using publicly available rates published by the Croatian national bank (for the Company’s loans) and would therefore be classified as Level 2 in the fair value hierarchy. Investments with available market prices and classified in the portfolio of investments in debt securities valued at amortised cost are classified as Level 1.

The fair values of cash and cash equivalents and other receivables, i.e. other assets do not differ significantly from their carrying amounts due to the short-term nature of these financial instruments. Fair value is determined based on Level 2 inputs for cash and cash equivalents and based on Level 3 inputs for other receivables i.e. other assets.

The fair value of financial instruments that are not traded in an active market is determined by using valuation techniques. These valuation techniques maximise the use of observable market data where it is available and rely as little as possible on entity-specific estimates. If all significant inputs required to fair value an instrument are observable, the instrument is included in Level 2. The fair value of financial instruments that are classified as Level 3 is determined by using discounted cash flow techniques or other valuation techniques by using relevant observable market data, information about current business and estimation of issuer's future business of the financial asset in question. There was no significant increase or decrease in the value of the parameters that would affect the change in the fair value of financial assets classified in Level 3 fair value.

There have been no significant reclassifications of financial assets at fair value through profit or loss from Level 1 and Level 2 to Level 3 and vice versa in statement of financial position.

The fair value of investment property is derived primarily by applying a sales comparison and income approach, and sometimes lacking information on market parameters by applying the cost method, depending on a particular property.

The fair value of the property for own use was carried out primarily by applying the income method.

The most significant inputs in the valuations were prices or rental income per square meter, generated based on comparable properties in the immediate vicinity and then adjusted by differences in key characteristics.

Information on measurements of the fair value of investment property using significant inputs that are not available on the market (Level 3) is published in the financial statements for 2025.

Intangible assets

In the period observed, intangible assets increased by EUR 435 thousand, and this represents the net effect of increasing intangible assets due to additional investments in the observed period and reduction of intangible assets due to amortization. The Company capitalized the costs of net salaries in the amount of EUR 54.1 thousand, the costs of contributions from salaries in the amount of EUR 15.5 thousand, the costs of taxes and surcharges from salaries in the amount of EUR 10.8 thousand, the costs of contributions to salaries in in the amount of EUR 10.2 thousand and other employee costs in the amount of EUR 1.2 thousand.
